PROVES WORTH SINGLE CIRCUIT

Statistical Report of Clerk for 1914
Reveals Rush County Can Support Separate Court.

IS SENT TO STATE OFFICER

More Civil Suits Filed Than in 1913
But Same Number Are Disposed
of—Divorces and Marriages.

The past year more than demonstrated that Rush county can support a separate circuit court. This is shown in the annual report of Arie M. Taylor clerk of the court, to the bureau of statistics. The report has just been sent to Thomas
W. Brolley, chief of the bureau.
When the Rush circuit court was first established there was some doubt as to whether there would be enough business here to warrant a separate court.

According to the report, there were 266 civil suits filed during the year. This number is twenty-five greater than in 1913. Of the 266 suits filed 235 were disposed of during the year. The same number was disposed of last year as in 1913.
During the year ten suits were sent out of the county on changes of venue. In 1913 a total of twenty suits were sent from the county.

Nineteen suits were received in the local court from other counties on venues. This is two less than in 1913. There were twelve cases in juvenile court in the year 1914 and twenty-three in 1913. The court issued ninety-three letters of administration in 1914. This is greater by thirty-seven than the year before. Thirty-four guardianships were issued in 1914, which is nineteen more than the year 1913.

The report shows that Sheriff Cavitt held seven sales during the year. The year before this he only held 3 sales. Ten decrees of foreclosures were entered by the court.
This is five more than were entered in 1913. Twelve persons were adjudged of unsound mind during the year 1914. This number is exactly the same as in 1913.

One of the surprising features of the report is the marriage and divorce record. The divorces in the county are only about twelve percent. of the marriages. A total of 203 marriage licenses were issued and twenty-seven divorces were granted. The marriage business greatly exceeded that of 1913, when only 160 licenses were issued. In the divorces, nineteen were granted to the wife and eight to the husband. In 1913 a total of nineteen divorces were granted—ten going to the husband and nine to the wife.
The showing of Rush county in the number of divorces is considered remarkable as compared to other counties. In at least two counties in the state the divorces were fifty percent of the marriages.

The foot and mouth disease is given as the reason for the falling off of the number of hunting licenses issued during the year 1914. A total of 242 were issued as compared with 339 for 1913. The epidemic of foot and mouth disease put a stop to the hunting and there was no need for the licenses.

The report shows that during the year just past three persons declared their intentions of becoming citizens of the United States. Two of these were naturalized by Judge Megee. There were no papers taken out in the year previous.

One of the remarkable things in the local court, according to the report, is the small amount of criminal business. There were a total of

HOLDS HE IS IN CONTEMPT

Mrs. M. M. Siler Says Divorced
Husband is Not Obeying Court

Mrs. Mrytle M. Siler has filed contempt proceedings against Thomas
A. Siler in the circuit court, alleging that he has failed to comply with an order of the court when she was granted a divorce from him on October 18, 1913. According to the complaint, Siler was ordered by the court to pay her three dollars a week
support money following the divorce trial. Mrs. Siler alleges that for the past ten weeks he has failed to pay her a cent and she demands thirty dollars and asks that he be cited to show why he is not in contempt of court.

ONE OF OLDEST CASES DISMISSED

Suit of Jesse Murphy Against John
E. Ryburn, For $5,000, Taken
Off the Docket Today.

DIVORCE SUIT IN JEGARDY

One of the oldest cases on the docket was dismissed this morning.
It was the case of Jesse Murphy against John E. Ryburn, on a contribution, in which $5,000 was asked.
The case was filed on February 4, 1911 and never came to trial. The two men were formerly partners in business in Glenwood. The costs were paid.

John Tuttle was ordered by Judge
Sparks to deposit $5 with the clerk of the court on or before January 16, or his divorce suit would be dismissed for want of prosecution.
Tuttle brought divorce proceedings against Cora Tuttle. Mrs. Tuttle defaulted and he was ordered on June 28, 1913 to deposit $5 for the prosecuting attorney, but so far has never complied with the order. The case has been standing on the docket ever since and will be stricken off
if he does not put up the five dollars.

FINDS TIME-TABLE JUST 27 YEARS OLD

E. C. McMahan, Big Four Agent,
Digs up Old Paper Showing
Card Effective Dec. 25, 1887.

IN DAYS OF THE OLD V. G. & R.

While going through some old papers at the Big Four station today, E. C. McMahan, the agent, found an old time-card that was effective on Christmas day, 1887, which was just twenty-seven years ago last Christmas. The time-table does not look much the worse for wear, but the paper, which was pink once upon a time, is beginning to turn yellow around the edges.

In those days the local division of the Big Four was known as the V.
G. & R. (Vernon, Greensburg and Rushville). It consisted only of the line between here and Vernon, but connected here with the Ft. W., C.
& L., now the L. E. & W., for Muncie and Fort Wayne. At that time the branch of the Big Four had not been extended from here to Benton Harbor, Michigan. There were two trains a day, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, between here and Vernon, but only one between here and Fort Wayne. At that time Newcastle was not on the map. Muncie being the only station mentioned on the time-table announcing trains between here and Fort Wayne.

DIVORCE LAW HELD INVALID

Lafayette Judge Rules Statute
Passed by 1913 Legislature is Not Constitutional.

60-DAY CLAUSE OVERTHROWN

Questions of Its Validity Never Brought Before the Indiana Supreme Court Yet.

A decision of interest in Rush
county has been handed down by Judge Henry H. Vinton, of the superior court in Tippecanoe county holding that a law enacted by the legislature of 1913 which provides that no step can be taken in a divorce suit until sixty days after the case is filed is unconstitutional. Although the question has never been presented in the Rush circuit court
it has come up in a number of other counties where the law has been held valid. The Indiana supreme court has never rendered an opinion relative to the constitutionality of the statute.

The law was passed at the last legislature for the purpose of preventing decision from being given in divorce cases a few minutes after the case was filed such as was the practice in many counties. Since the statute has been in force a number of unhappy couples have been able to adjust their differences during the period the case was pending and have later dismissed the proceedings. Another purpose of the law was to prevent either a husband or wife from securing a divorce
when the defendant would not appear. By giving the sixty days' time both parties are afforded an opportunity to consider the proposed decree before the family quarrel
is aired in public.

The proceeding passed upon by Judge Vinton was that of Grace
Webb against Thomas N. Webb, which was filed November 28, 1914.
When it was called objections were filed on the ground the case had not been in court 60 days. Arguments were made on the question and Judge Vinton held the law unconstitutional and set the action for hearing January 11.

This is the second time that the law has been held to be unconstitutional by courts in Tippecanoe county for recently Judge Thomas W.
Field made a similar finding in what is known as the Frank divorce case.

Previous to the enactment of the law instances were known where suits for divorce would be filed and granted within a few minutes and in some instances one of the parties
obtaining the divorce would remarry before leaving the court house. The law was placed upon the statute books to prevent such acts which could not be avoided under the former statute.

Local attorneys are divided in their opinion regarding the constitutionality of the statute. While a few of them declare that the sixty-day clause is not valid the majority believe that it will be upheld if the question is ever taken to the highest court in Indiana.

DANISH STEAMER GOES DOWN.

(By United Press.)

Copenhagen, Jan. 7.—The Danish steamer Shingols has been sunk by striking a mine in the North Sea and seventeen members of her crew drowned.

Jack Sullivan, the merchant policeman, who has been ill for a few days with the gripe, will be on duty tonight. William Oneal substituted in Mr. Sullivan's place.

GOOD FEELING IS WATCHWORD

Members of Rushville Bar Enjoy
John A. Titsworth's Hospitality
at Banquet Wednesday Night

TOASTS ARE RESPONDED TO

Resolutions of Good Will for Ben L.
Smith, Oldest Member, Who
Could Not Attend, Passed.

Good fellowship prevailed at the banquet given to the members of the Rushville bar by John A. Titsworth at his home, corner of Ninth and Main streets, last evening. It was the first time in many years that the lawyers of Rushville have been together in a social gathering and the evening was immensely appreciated
by the twenty lawyers present.

Their appreciation was expressed at the conclusion of the toast by a vote extended to the host, and his wife, who ably assisted him, for the excellent banquet and the spirit which prompted the affair. Mr. Titsworth replied appropriately to the occasion, expressing his pleasure to be able to bring the members of the bar together in such a happy gathering.

Resolutions expressing the good will of the members of the bar for Ben L. Smith, the oldest attorney in Rushville, both in point of service and years were adopted by the members of the bar and today were conveyed to Mr. Smith. He has become so feeble that he was unable to be present last night and sent a message expressing his regret at being unable to be present. The committee on resolutions was Samuel L.
Trabue, James E. Watson and Frank J. Hall. The motion that the resolutions be adopted was put by John Q. Thomas.

Mr. Trabue presided. He called on John D. Megee, retiring judge of the Rush circuit court, who responded to the toast, "The Past." He touched on not only the past of the bench
but of the bar as well. Judge Megee has long been in the service and has seen much history made by the Rushville bar.

Judge Will M. Sparks, who became judge of the circuit court the first
of this year, responded to the toast,
"The Future." He outlined to some extent his plans for the circuit court
and expressed the hope that the fullest and best fellowship would exist between the bar and the bench.

Donald L. Smith, retiring prosecuting attorney, spoke briefly on the subject, "What I Did." He declared that he was glad the toastmaster did not ask him to tell what he didn't do because he would be there all night and most of the day.
He recited some of the disappointing
any annoying experiences of the prosecutor's office, some of them
very humorous.

Albert Stevens, the new prosecuting attorney, responded to the toast, "What I Expect to Do." He outlined briefly the policies which he expects to follow while in office. He declared that his prospects, if they were as bad as painted by Mr. Smith were not very rosy, to say the least.

John H. Kiplinger's subject was "Trading at Home." He emphasized the point that while the practice of law is not commercial in any sense of the word, the same reasons exist for "trading at home" as exist
in the case of the retail merchants.

George Campbell responded to the subject, "Humor at the Bench and the Bar." Mr. Campbell is counted the best story teller of the Rushville bar and he lived up to his reputation
last night. He recalled some actual

TO LIFT EMBARGO ON WOOL

British Government Makes One Proviso, However, in Offer.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 7.—The British government this afternoon informed the state department it would lift
the embargo on Australian wool to the United States on the condition than the wool would be shipped in British bottoms.

This also favorably effects hides
and skins shipped to the United States. The British government will require a shippers' guarantee of re-shipping of raw manufactured products. State department officials were pleased with the action of the British.

GREELY PERKINS IS FOUND GUILTY

In Second Trial on Charge of "Boot-
legging" he is Found Guilty
by Jury Late Wednesday.

HE DENIES THE ALLEGATIONS

Greeley Perkins was found guilty of the charge of "bootlegging" late Wednesday afternoon in police court
by a jury and was fined fifty dollars and costs. Perkins was unable to pay his fine and went back to jail for a total of sixty days. Perkins will be compelled to serve this in addition to the time he has been in jail awaiting a second trial, which makes a total of something like seventy days all told that he will have been the guests of Sheriff Cavitt.

The jury was out only about fifteen minutes in convicting Perkins and three ballots were taken. The attorneys engaged in a lively tilt
when Chief Rosencrance was on the stand. He refused to tell where he was stationed so that he could witness the alleged transaction between Perkins and Alexander West. Geo.
Campbell, one of the attorneys for Perkins, demanded that he tell where he was, but Special Judge Young upheld the state in the contention that this was not material. Perkins took the stand and denied everything. He even denied being in the rear of the Roth pool room.

Many were of the opinion that if Perkins had told the truth and admitted where he had bought the liquor he would not have been convicted.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST AIR RAID

English, Evidently Expect Attack by

Germans From the Skies, According to Steps Taken.

ZEPELINS DISCOVERED

(By United Press.)

London, Jan. 7.—Added precautions taken today by the authorities indicates a belief that an important aerial raid by Germany is expected in the near future. Additional men have been sent to the coast guard observation stations. The crews at the stations are on duty in renewed strength and the police have been ordered to enforce the dim-light law
to the letter.

The precautions follow the discovery that German Zeppelins have been cruising near the Straits of Dover, escorted by armed German biplanes.

LEGISLATURE FORMALLY OPENS

Charles H. Bedwell Elected Speaker,
Scores "Pernicious Lobby"
in Speech in House.

SENATE TO PRINT ITS BILLS

Governor Ralston, in Message to Joint Session, Calls Mistakes
of 1913 Inexcusable.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 7.—Indiana's 69th general assembly convened at ten o'clock this morning for its sixty-one days' session with the Democrats in control in both branches. The Democratic state organization with National Committee-man Thomas Taggart as its recognized leader was dominant. With the signs of the times indicating Indiana as the battleground for the coming presidential campaign, this session was attended with exceptional significance. This was heightened by the fact that President Wilson will come practically at the opening of the session to deliver what is expected to be the keynote of the campaign.

Legislators who approached the state house today to attend the opening session lifted their eyes to the gold-leafed dome and saw with amazement that the stars and stripes
floated from the flagstaff upside down.

When the assembly convened it prepared to follow the organization
program laid out for it by the Democratic caucus.

Charles H. Bedwell of Sullivan was elected speaker of the house.
He made a speech in which he scored the "pernicious lobby," condemned excessive legislation and advocated efficiency and economy in employing house employees. He said legislation coming from the Republican side
should be supported if it was good.

One of the first acts of the senate
today was to order that all bills
should be printed when introduced thus doing away with all graft in connection with so-called "bill factory" which stole copies of bills.

After Governor Ralston's message was heard the house and senate adjourned until tomorrow at ten. Both houses probably will attend President Wilson's address in a body.

Indiana's problems, ranging from flood prevention and extravagance
to taxation and labor-capital disputes, were thoughtfully and seriously discussed this afternoon by Governor Samuel M. Ralston, who appeared in person and read his message to Indiana's 150 lawmakers gathered in the sixty-ninth session of the general assembly. The

The January White Sales

January white sales have become a merchandising institution.

This year, however, they have more than their usual attractiveness because of the low price of cotton.

Merchants and manufacturers,
with their country's prosperity at heart, are making unusual efforts to encourage the sale of cotton goods.

Prices are favorable and the success of these sales will have their impetus in the coming business revival.

The advertising columns of The Daily Republican are an excellent guide to the best stores.

New High Figures For May and July
Made at Chicago Close.

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Wheat made a tremendous jump in the grain pit late today and registered a new high figure of $1.38 3/8 for May and $1.24 3/8 for July at the close of the market. Corn and oats also scored advances. A rush of buying orders in the last 45 minutes of the market was responsible for the sensational rise which at one time shot May wheat to $1.38 5/8.

Amusements

The Gem will show a two reel Rex drama "The Vagabond" for the first picture tonight. Herbert Rawlinson, William Worthington and Beatrice Van are featured. Rawlinson plays a double role and the story is interesting and dramatic. The other is a comedy "Partners in Crime." Billie Ritchie is featured and it is said to be equally as funny as the picture "Love and Surgery" shown here a short time ago. Tomorrow night the two reel feature "The Turn in the Tide" will be shown.

The Mystic offers a two reel historical drama "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" for the first picture tonight. It is an Edison drama and is said to be a beautiful picture taken from this famous historical event. The scenes are laid in the exact places of the Revolutionary days and the picture is a great patriotic subject. The other picture is a Vitagraph comedy "Henry Jones' Courtship." Sidney Drew is featured.

The Princess will show a two reel Vitagraph feature "The Butterfly" for the first picture tonight. Helen Gardner is featured and it is said to be a fine comedy-drama. "The Wife's Stratagem." Irene Hawley is featured. On Friday, matinee and night the four reel feature "One Wonderful Night" will be shown. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are featured. The picture is taken from the prize story appearing in the Ladies World magazine and is said to be a wonderful production.

MANY COMING FOR K. OF P. INSPECTION

Visitors Will be Here Tonight From

Connersville, Newcastle and

Knightstown.

ROAST PIG WILL BE SERVED

A big time is anticipated at the annual inspection of Ivy company No. 35, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, tonight. In connection with the inspection the installation of officers will take place and there will be a pig roast. The young porker, roasted fit for a king, will be set out on the table promptly at six-thirty o'clock and visiting Knights and local members of the Rank will be invited to go to the task of annihilating the pig, which was donated by Knight Will Morgan.

Members of the companies at Connersville, Newcastle and Knightstown have been invited to attend. Word was received today that fifteen or twenty, practically the whole active company, was coming down from Newcastle in automobiles and that there would be ten from Connersville. Two automobile loads are expected from Knightstown. Colonel Phelps of Newcastle will do the inspecting.

experiences and some things he had observed which kept the lawyers in an uproar of laughter all the time.

James E. Watson's toast was on the topic, "The Jury." Mr. Watson dwelt on the practices of a lawyer before a jury and told something of the methods of some of the great jury lawyers of the country whom he had observed.

At the close the attorneys enjoyed some fine music rendered by members of the Rushville bar. B. F. Miller sang several old and familiar airs, among them being "When Polly and I Were Sweethearts Twenty Years Ago," and "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Mr. Watson sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and he and Mr. Miller sang a duet, "Larboard." Judge Sparks was the accompanist.

A course turkey dinner was served the menu including all of the things that go with a turkey dinner.

The Fairview and Manilla Independent team will play Friday night at the hall in Falmouth.

Miss Anna Mary Cowan has been suffering with a slight illness at her home at 711 North Jackson street.

Mrs. H. B. Halterman of Newcastle spent the morning in this city, returning home, after a visit in Shelbyville.

The funeral services of Alonzo Gates will be conducted Friday morning at ten-thirty o'clock in the Carthage Methodist church by the Rev. Mr. Sterrett. Burial will take place in the Arlington cemetery.

Mrs. Thomas Geraghty and daughters, the Misses Nellie, Nora and Margery Geraghty, are suffering with a severe attack of the grippe. Miss Frances Geraghty, another daughter, has just recovered.

Word has reached here that Forest Webb, who is attending Valparaiso University, is playing center on the basket ball team which represents the department of Educationals. The other departments are the Engineers, Scientists, Lawyers, Medics and Pharmacies. Mr. Webb played center on the local, high school team for two years.

RUSHVILLE WON.

The Rushville Independent basketball team won an exciting game from the Orange team last night, at Orange by the score 13 to 12. The game was close throughout and in the last few minutes of play Rushville took the lead by the margin of one point and succeeded in holding it until the end of the game. It was the best game played in Orange this year.

Remarkable Growth.

The substantial growth of the American Red Cross organization during the past year is described in an article in the January number of the American Red Cross Magazine. During 1914 there was an increase of 47 Red Cross chapters in the United States and an increase of Red Cross members of all classes of approximately 3,000.

The American Red Cross thus far has sent to the distressed countries of Europe 192 skilled surgeons and enrolled Red Cross trained nurses and vast quantities of medical and surgical supplies and shiploads of warm clothing and other useful donations for the destitute women and children and other non-combatants. It has also sent numerous large contributions of money.

The American official relief organization has been able to carry on this gigantic work as a result only of years of steady planning and systematizing.

"Our American Red Cross has demonstrated its preparedness to deal with war conditions," says an editorial in the same number of the magazine. "Its organization that provided trained, able, skilled, personnel and supplies ran smoothly and promptly."

This same editorial says elsewhere:

"By means of its Medical Bureau and its Nursing Service it (the American Red Cross) was able to supply immediately a corps of competent surgeons and trained nurses. No time was lost in having to consider how they should be obtained or where they should be obtained. No study was required as to uniforms and equipment. These were details all arranged long ago. Salaries to be paid and standards required were all to be found in the regulations of the Red Cross service."

A new item recently printed in the New York Times reveals the absurdity of claims of the proponents of the Democratic tariff law that its reductions in schedules will not injure the interests of the farmer eventually and will reduce the cost of living. The Times mentions, just as a small matter in reciting the story of a wager made that the steamship Vasari, sailing from Buenos Aires, would never reach port at New York, that the Vasari brought to the United States 36,528 quarters of beef, which is the biggest consignment of frozen beef that ever reached the New York port in one vessel. Incidentally, it was also stated that the Vasari carried 5,842 carcasses of Argentine sheep in her refrigerator. This, we presume, will not tend to do any damage to the American farmer.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. ©

What the Solons Are Doing; Legislative Facts---By Expert

Prepared for the United Press by John A. Lapp, director of the Bureau of Legislative Information.

(Mr. Lapp will answer questions relating to the work of the Legislature, including legislative organization and methods, pending bills and enacted laws. Questions on the merits of men or measures will not be answered. To avoid delay address all questions direct to the United Press, 36 1/2 West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to the Daily Republican if preferred.)

M. A. Muncie, writes—"It is true that the public cannot get copies of bills after they are introduced and before the committee hearings? Is it true that 'bill factories' exist and that heads of these factories get real money for copies of bills that the public should receive from the state free?"

Reply—In past legislatures bills have not been printed until reported favorably by a committee. The copy introduced is given to the chairman of the committee to which it is referred. Sometimes a duplicate was filed with the clerk but the public has had no easy means of access to these copies.

M. A. Writes—"The constitution says bills should be given three readings before each house. Is this done? Is anything lost in case this isn't done?"

Reply—Bills are required to be read three times in each house. In practice no attempt is made actually to read them. If all bills were actually read three times, all of the time would be taken up by the reading. There is nothing lost by this procedure because members depend upon the printed bill instead of the reading by the clerk for their knowledge of it. The provision for three readings accomplishes the purpose of having each bill brought up on three separate days.

Citizen writes—"Will there be a big rush of bills introduced the first day?"

Reply—There are usually no bills introduced the first day. The day is devoted to organization and the message of the Governor. The first active days of legislation will be the first of the following week.

JOHN A. LAPP.

Governor urged economy and the installation of business methods by the assembly, demanded that the officials of the two houses do their duty to prevent recurrence of bill-juggling, praised various achievements of the preceding legislature and outlined legislation which he desires of the 1915 legislature.

Doubtless with the recent investigation of the Marion county grand jury and its indictment of members and employees of the legislature in mind, Governor Ralston handled without gloves the matter of employees for the legislature. The General Assembly has nothing of the functions of an employment bureau," he said "beyond its duty to secure the needful, and only the needful, help to enable its members to render the service for which they have been chosen." He called on the assembly to ascertain the number of employees needed before appropriation for them was made and he recommended that the appropriation not exceed $15,000. He suggested further that each house keep a payroll of its employees, showing the days of labor performed and the amount due each employee.

The Governor was emphatic in requesting that everything possible be done to prevent recurrence of the bill-juggling that occurred during the 1913 legislature when Lak county bills became laws with the Governor's signature without having been passed by both branches.

"I recommend that the secretary of the senate and the clerk of the house be required whenever a bill is sent to the Governor for his approval, to indicate to him in writing over their signatures, that the same has passed their respective houses, and that the clerk enrolling the same likewise indicate to the Governor in writing that he enrolled said bill."

Speaking of the mistakes of the last assembly he said they were "to characterize them in no severer terms, absolutely inexcusable." He said he recognized that it is impossible for the president of the senate and the speaker of the house carefully to scrutinize all bills they have to sign, or to keep in their minds the record and history of every bill."

With regard to economy in supplies for the assembly he recommended that all printing and supplies be purchased through the bureau of public printing and that the law governing this bureau should be amended so that the clerk of the bureau should submit to the bureau thirty days prior to the session an estimate of the printing and supplies necessary for the coming assembly. The past assembly has been severely criticised for alleged extravagance in supplies.

Regarding "the third house" as lobbyists have been called, the Governor said he believed some practical measure should be passed by this assembly that will "redeem the business of lobbying from the reproach that now attaches thereto and put its practice on a higher plane of legitimacy and real service." He said all lobbyists-for-hire should be forced to register with the secretary of state, and set forth their character of their employment. He said they should not as lobbyists be allowed to occupy or share the seats of members. He added that reporters for newspapers should not be allowed to lobby for measures on the floor under the guise that they were doing legitimate newspaper work.

Governor Ralston dwelt extensively with the state's finances. He pronounced the state in a healthy financial condition, saying that no state in the union was in better condition. He mentioned the appropriations of the last legislature for the educational institutions saying he had hoped that Indiana and Purdue universities would have been enabled by these generous appropriations to do the work now done by the state geologists, state statistician, state board of forestry and state entomologist, so as to save the state the money required for these departments. "I have found that these universities do not care to undertake the work in the absence of a specific appropriation to carry it on, and I am not willing to recommend that you make the appropriation," he said.

He recommended that the statutes be so amended that the state tax board might give direct all notice necessary to effect the equalization of assessments, saying that it must now act through the county auditor, and "county auditors do not always perform these duties." The state board should also be given power to equalize the valuation of property as between various townships of a county. County boards of review sometimes fail to do this, he said. "It is a notorious fact that county assessors have been known to consent to the listing of property for taxation at a gross undervaluation," he said. He said the state board should be given power to remove a county assessor for cause.

The Governor said he believed that "neither capital nor labor desires legislation" on the subject of conciliation and arbitration. "They both seem to flatter themselves that they can get the better of each in a lock-out or strike by winning public sympathy," he said. He asked the assembly to enact a law creating a board of conciliation and arbitration.

FED AVERAGES UPSET THE DOPE

Batters in Third Circuit Who Hit
Good in Big League Slumped to Almost Nothing.

OPPOSITE WAS ALSO TRUE

Figures Don't Lie But They Present
Some Interesting Dope—Boxers
Want Too Much.

BY HAL SHERIDAN.
(Written for United Press.)

New York, Jan. 7.—The grand old
dope box gets another shaking up.
A careful perusal of the Federal League batting averages for the season of 1914, recently made public by the genial Mr. Gilmore, will shake one's faith in that old adage that
"figures don't lie." They must not lie but they certainly mystify when
one gazes over the marks set up by
some of the batsmen in the third
loop last year.

Athletes who clubbed out three hundred and better averages in the National and American league
slumped down in the two fifty class
in the Fed league. And on the other hand some who couldn't even pile up
two hundred mark in the Johnson
and Tener circuit slugged for three
hundred and more in the third
league. That's where the dope box
gets a shaking up.

The case of Josephus Tinker is one of the glaring kind. Along with his woes as manager of the Cincinnati Reds in 1913 Joe managed to
eke out a puny average of .317
against National League pitching.
Well, Joe himself and several others
thought what he would do to the
twirlers in the Federal league would be a shame. It was but not the kind of shame that was predicted. Tinker managed to amass an average of just .259 in the Gilmore circuit—a fall of 58 points from his work in the National League.

Danny Murphy, once a star in the Athletic outfield, was a little more consistent. He walloped the leather
for .322 with the Athletics in 1913.
Last year with the Brookfeds he
clubbed out a mark of .311. Art
Criggs, in the International league in 1913, pounded .292. Last season with the Feds he dropped to .282
George Stovall, in his last year in the American league, had a mark of
.287. As the leader of the Kansas
City Fed tribe in 1914 he could pile
up an average of but .270.

Those named are some of the ones
who went down the ladder. There
are on the other hand some who
went up even farther than the others
descended. Of these Hal Chase stands out the most prominent. In 1913 in Ban Johnson's loop, the first
sacker who once was the pride of Gotham slammed the ball for an average of .267. Last season, with the Buffalo Feds he returned to his
form of former days with the Yankees by chalking up an average of .354.

Steve Yerks was another who
found the brand of pitching on the Federal league to his liking. Last season with the Pittsburgh Feds he
slammed the ball for an average of
.233. His mark in the American league in 1913 was .267, giving him
a gain of sixty-six points.

Frank LaPorte, formerly of the
St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators, batted .250 in the American league, with Indianapolis,
the Fed league pennant winners last season, he was good for a mark of
.311.

Art Wilson, when he was with the Giants in 1913, couldn't even top
the two hundred mark, his average
being .190. With Tinker's Chifed
crew last season he chalked up .287,
a gain of nearly one hundred points.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

GIRLS DO THIS
for your Rough and Smarting Face. Steam your face well, rinse with cold water, dry with soft towel and apply. Labelbro with soft damp sponge. First application will make your skin fresher and clearer. Make it a daily habit and notice decided improvement.

CHAPTER XLVII.

The Last Warning.

In the chill, violet-shadowed dusk of that clear evening, a chap-fallen motor car crept sluggishly into the little mountain town of Mesquite at the heels of two mutinous mules, driven by a chauffeur who steered with one hand while the other flourished a crackling whip-lash over the backs of its sole motive power.

Its one passenger, a cripple as helpless as the car itself, huddled in a corner of the rear seat, saluted Mesquite with a snarl. Though he was in sore need of such rude comforts as the town stood prepared to afford him, his demeanor toward it was that of one who suffers an indignity rather than begs accommodation.

And now, as the car crawled to a pause before the Mountain house—Mesquite's one caravanserai—and Mesquite itself, to the last flea-bitten hound, gathered round to view this wonder, Mr. Trine's indignation and chagrin distilled words of poisonous import.

Far from resenting this, Mesquite, pipe-in mouth, hands in pockets, admired and applauded, and rather resented the change that befell when two other strangers (whose earlier appearance in town had helped make that one day memorable beyond all others in Mesquite's history) charged out of the Mountain house and interrupted the elder devil with cries of greeting and jubilation.

The leader of these answered to the name of Marrophat; his companion was a person named Jimmy. Mesquite acquired this information through paying close attention to the substance of their communications with the cripple. More than this, however, it learned little. Something seemed to have been accomplished by the two, something that was highly gratifying to Seneca Trine; for he was chuckling almost mirthfully when lifted from the car and carried into the hotel.

What passed between the trio after they disappeared behind that bed-chamber door Mesquite could by no means guess. But that a celebration of some sort was in progress was evidenced by the frequency with which Marrophat and Jimmy called on the bar for more liquid refreshment.

And toward midnight one belated Mesquite paused in the street outside the Mountain house for one last curious stare at the lighted windows of Mr. Trine's quarters.

He saw, clearly silhouetted against the glowing oblong of the window, the Mephistophelean profile of Seneca Trine, distorted with a grimace of the cruellest joy that ever heart of man conceived. He saw Marrophat approach his master with a drunken swagger and a speech which, though indistinguishable to the unseen auditor, unquestionably afforded both of the other men ample excuse for ecstatic glee. Toward its conclusion Mr. Marrophat apparently capped the peak of jubilation by fumbling in his coat pocket and bringing forth something which strongly resembled a single playing card.

Now when he had contrived to master his mirth, the cripple made a gesture which eloquently abolished this card, a gesture which said quite plainly: "All that is finished. The thing has served its purpose! To hell with it!"

Whereupon, with a smart jerk of his wrist, Mr. Marrophat sent the card spinning and sailing out through the open window to lose itself in the night.

The watcher didn't see it fall, and though he spent an unconscionable time searching for it in the deep dust of one of these last was dressed in a suit of man's clothing, much the worse for wear.

At sight of the Mountain house the party betrayed slight symptoms of a more cheerful spirit: rejoicing in its promise of food and drinks and beds without wherein to sleep, the four quickened their steps.

But of a sudden one of the women—she who wore the garments of her sex—paused, uttered a low cry, a thrill with terror, and clutching the arm of the man nearest her, pointed down to the card that stared up from the dust at her feet.

It was a Trey of hearts.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Full Flight.

"Oh, what can it mean?" Rose whispered brokenly, clinging to her lover's arm. "Surely you don't think . . . Surely, it must be accidental . . . Surely it can't mean—"

"I'm afraid it does," Alan Law responded gravely, eyeing the front of the Mountain house. "Our luck holds consistently—that's all. It wouldn't be us if we didn't pick out the one place where Marrophat and Jimmy chose to stop over night. Fortunately, it's early; I doubt they're up. With half a show we ought to be able to find some way of putting a good distance between us and this town before they waken . . . Tom!"

But Mr. Barcus was already at his elbow, in thorough sympathy with Alan's interpretation of the significance to be attached to the card that trembled in Rose's hand. "Sharp's the word!" he agreed. "And there's a motor car over there, in front of the blacksmith's. Probably we can hire her—"

"Trine's car!" Alan ejaculated, swinging round and recognizing the automobile at a glance. "Then he's here, as well!"

"Looks like it," Barcus admitted. "But so much the better. We'll just naturally take the darn' thing off his hands, and I'll bet a dollar there isn't another car within a radius of fifty miles! We'll be well out of these giddy mountains long before he finds anything to chase us with."

But his confidence was demonstrated to be premature by the discovery, which rewarded the first cursory examination, that the car was very thoroughly out of commission.

Two minutes later, however, their earnest inquiries elicited the fact that, although Barcus was justified in his surmise that the neighboring country was poverty-stricken in respect of motor cars, Mesquite itself boasted two motorcycles whose owners were not indifferent to a chance to sell them second-hand at a considerable advance on the retail list price of the machines, when new.

And thus it was that, within ten minutes from Rose's discovery of that chance-flung warning in the dust, the party was again in rapid motion.

His beauty sleep disturbed by the departure of the machine bearing Barcus and Judith, Seneca Trine roused on an elbow and looked out of the window just in time to see the second motorcycle gathering momentum, Alan steering, Rose in the seat behind.

Sixty seconds later a flaunting banner of dust was all that remained to remind Mesquite that romance had passed that way—that, and a series of passionate screams emanating from the bedchamber of Seneca Trine, where the cripple lay possessed by seven devils of insensate rage.

His screams brought attendance; but it was a matter of many precious minutes before his demands could be met and Marrophat and Jimmy roused from their capricious slumbers in adjoining chambers; and half an hour elapsed before the chauffeur, roused from his own well-earned rest, succeeded in convincing the pair that pursuit with the motor car was out of the question.

But the devil takes care of his own: within another half hour what seemed to be sheer, bull-headed, dumb luck brought a casual automobile to Mesquite—a two-seated, high-power racing machine of the latest and speediest pattern, driven by two irresponsible wayfarers who proved only too susceptible to Marrophat's offer of double the cost of the car—f. o. b. Detroit—for its immediate surrender.

The two piled out promptly enough; Marrophat and Jimmy jumped in; Trine from his bedroom window sped them on their murderous mission with a blast of blasphemy.

It must have been an hour later when Alan, checking his motorcycle as it surmounted the summit of a long upgrade, looked back and discovered, several miles distant on the far-flung windings of the mountain road, a small crimson shape that ran like a mad thing tirelessly pursued by a cloud of tawny dust like a golden ghost.

A motor car, beyond all question, and one of uncommon road-devouring quality; it might or might not contain Marrophat and Jimmy, once more in pursuit. Whether or not, bitter experience had long since educated

Alan in the gentle art of taking no chances.

Though it was his life that they sought so pertinaciously, no later than yesterday (and then by no means for the first time), they had proved that if Rose were with Alan they would include her ruthlessly in whatsoever scheme they might contemplate for his personal extermination.

Nor would Tom Barcus be exempt, if they were caught in company—though Judith might be, in view of Marrophat's infatuation for the girl. These two were far ahead, out of sight, indeed; and must somehow be overtaken and warned—no easy matter, since the machine which bore them was, if anything, faster than Alan's, just as the racing automobile was faster than either.

Alan kept his gaze steadfast to the road before them, daring not once to look up and round or back.

So sinuous and meandering was its course, indeed, that Alan seldom could see a hundred yards of it ahead, but must pelt on in panic flight, hoping for the best—that Judith and Barcus would soon show up in front, that something might happen to hinder the pursuit—never knowing whether the latter lost or gained.

And thus catastrophe befell. Round the swelling bosom of a wooded mountainside the motorcycle swept like a hunted hare, and without the least warning came upon Barcus and Judith, dismounted, Barcus bending over his cycle and tinkering with its motor.

For one horripilating instant collision seemed unavoidable. Barcus and Judith and the motorcycle occupied most of the width of the road; there was little room between them and the declivity, less between them and the forest. To try to pass them on the latter side would be only to dash his brains out against the trees; while to make the attempt on the outside would be to risk leaving the road altogether and dashing off into space . . .

And it was impossible to stop the cycle—so brief was all his warning. In desperation Alan chose the outside of the road; and for the space of a single heartbeat thought that he might possibly make it, but with the next realized that he would not—seeing the front wheel swing off over the lip of the slope.

At this he acted sharply and upon sheer instinct. As the cycle left the road altogether he risked a broken knee by releasing his grasp of the handlebars and straightening out his leg and driving it down forcibly against the roadbed. The effect of this was to lift him bodily from the saddle: the machine shot from beneath him like some strange projectile hurled from the bore of a great gun; and Rose crashed against him in the same fraction of a second.

Headlong they plunged as one down the hillside, struck its shelving surface a good twenty feet from the brink of the road, and flying apart tumbled their separate ways down the remainder of the drop and into the friendly shelter of the underbrush.

Something nearly miraculous saved them whole. Beyond a few scratches and bruises and a severe shaking up, they escaped unharmed. And they were picking themselves up and regaining their breath and re-collecting their scattered wits when, with impetus no less terrific than their own had been, the pursuing motor car swung round the bend and hurled itself directly at the two who remained upon the road above.

CHAPTER XLIX.

Sacrifice.

But Tom Barcus hadn't failed to profit by the warning implicit in Alan's accident.

Alan, he told himself shrewdly, would never have run his cycle at so foolhardy a pace without good reason; and under the circumstances good reason was synonymous solely with pursuit.

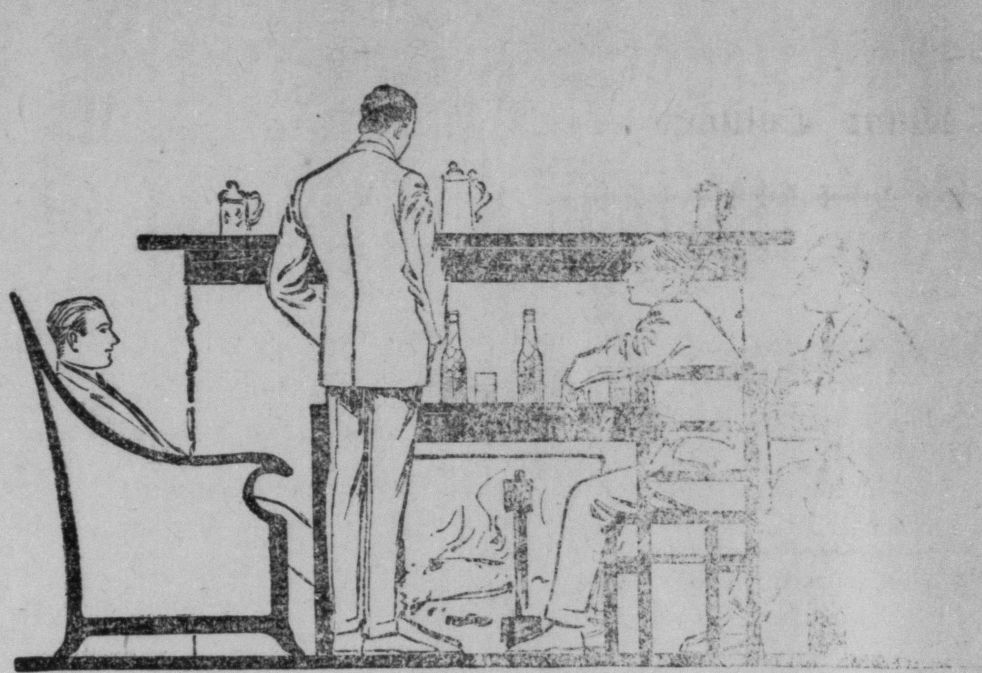

He was therefore on the alert, quick to see the racing automobile when it came hurtling round the bend, and in the very nick of time grasped Judith's arm and swung her bodily with him back out of harm's way, amid the trees that bordered the inside of the road.

Of necessity his motorcycle suffered. Abandoned in the middle of the road, it was struck by the buffers of the motor car and flung aside as if it had been nothing more ponderable than a truss of straw—landing half-way down the embankment, a hopeless tangle of shattered tubing and twisted wire.

At first blush the circumstance seemed surprising, that the car did not stop. But then Barcus reminded himself that Marrophat and Jimmy could not possibly have witnessed the accident involving Alan and Rose, who, together with the wreck of their machine, remained well-cloaked by the underbrush at the bottom of the canyon. In all probability, then, the assassins had assumed that Alan had hurried on; and since their own first business was concerned exclusively with them, they had done likewise, reasoning that they could return and deal with his unfortunate friend at their convenience after overhauling their quarry, whose life they most coveted.

Beer the Ideal Winter Bebe

The increasing consumption of beer in winter is disproving the popular notion that it is peculiarly a summer drink.

Gradually the sparkling beverage is displacing stimulant in the clubs and homes where men and women gather for a social hour.

Beer is the ideal winter drink because it supplies the body with the wholesome food which Nature demands to combat the rigors of the weather.

Drink beer in the winter time. It means sociability, but not intemperance, and health instead of dissipation.

JESSE DRAKE BUYS VIGAN'S STORE

Takes Possession of Variety Business Today and Will Establish it in Old Portola Room.

IN 99 CENT STORE 12 YEARS

Jesse R. Drake, who has been employed at the Ninety-nine cent store for twelve years, has bought the Vigan variety store in West Second street and took possession today. Mr. Drake has leased the room next door east, which was occupied by the Portola theater, and will move the stock into it the first of February. The new store will be known as "The Welcome Variety Store." The room it will occupy is being remodeled and will have a modern front. Mr. Drake expects to make the store up-to-date in all of its appointments.

Mr. Drake obtained a position in the Ninety-Nine Cent store in the fall of 1902 at $2.50 a week where he has worked faithfully to learn the variety business and hopefully looked forward to the day when he could have a business of his own. Mr. Drake is well known throughout the county and his friends will undoubtedly be glad to hear of his new venture and will wish him success.

Ben Vigan, it is announced, who has been in business here a number of years has not decided what he will do.

OHIO WOMAN'S DROPSY CURED!

Tells Everybody How This Happy Result was Produced.

Dear Editor:—For a long time I had been suffering from dropsy. I had puffy pouches under my eyes. My feet, ankles and abdomen were swollen to twice their natural size and a finger pressure on the swelling left a white dent which remained for some time. This water often pressed against my heart and caused a smothering sensation. I had severe headaches, continuous backache, dizzy sensations and rheumatic pains throughout my entire body. The kidneys were off in their action and this poison backed up in my system. In spite of my doctoring and the taking of many remedies I obtained no relief.

Finally I was given a few Lloyd's kidney and rheumatism tablets, the new scientific prescription. These did me such good that I at once got a larger size and in a week's time all the swelling, backache, and other symptoms left me like magic. I now feel like a new woman. Lloyd's Tablets deserve all the credit for curing me of the trouble and ridding me of the terrible agony. I advise all to be sure and get from their druggists today, Lloyd's, the kind that cured me and cleanse their kidneys before too late.

TELEPHONE CABLE SHOT

Attention Called to Two Laws Violated When This is Done.

Another example of shooting telephone cable has been called to the attention of George Davis, general manager of the Rushville Co-operative Telephone company. Some one "peppered" a piece of cable in South Pearl street the other night with a shot gun and just "shot it full of holes." This is not the first time telephone cables have been shot through. Mr. Davis does not think it is maliciously done, but that someone just thoughtlessly hits it while shooting at something else. Mr. Davis calls attention to the fact that there is a state law against molesting telephone poles and wires and a city ordinance against shooting inside the city limits.

AGENTS VISITED MANY CHILDREN

Report of State Board of Charities Shows State Cared For 4,629 Children During Year.

FOUND HOME FOR 3 THOUSAND

Indianapolis, Jan. 7.—Under the head "Statistics of Dependent Children," the Board of State Charities in its annual report, gives the state information concerning the work of the orphan's home and state agents during the year just past. In addition to visiting children in family homes and in a general way supervising the work of the orphan's home associations, the state agency has found time to place 3,216 children. The agents visited 4,629 children and 95.5 per cent. were found doing well or fairly well. The remaining 208 were found in an unsatisfactory condition and steps were taken to return the children to the agencies responsible for them.

"Finding homes for these 3,216 children involved 5,398 placements and transfers," the report says. The following table shows the results: Subject to visitation, 889; adopted, 112 over age, 338; over age and self supporting, 551; ran away, 184; married, 114; died, 46; with parents, 168; in institutions other than orphan's homes, 47; returned to counties, 767.

The total cost involved was $13,108.45, which included salaries.

thirty-two criminal cases filed during the year and of this number twenty cases were dismissed and a total of thirty-four were disposed of. In 1913 forty cases were filed and eighteen were dismissed. The crimes on which the charges were based were many and varied. Six were convicted for felonies and three of this number were released on probation.

There were five convictions for misdemeanors and two of the five were released on probation. There were three cases for the violation of the liquor laws and two were convicted. There were two cases for assault and battery. One of these was nolleed and the other is still pending. There were a total of 27 cases for misdemeanors and five for felonies. The criminal business slightly exceeded that of 1913.

GERMAN AERIAL RAID DEFEATED

Paris Official Statement Says That Uninterrupted Successes Meet French Efforts

GERMAN BATTERIES STOPPED

(By United Press.)

Paris, Jan. 7.—Uninterrupted successes at every point of contact with the enemy is claimed by the official and unofficial reports received from the front today. A determined aerial raid directed against Dunkirk and the ammunition and supply bases in that vicinity is reported to have been defeated by the accurate fire of the French aero guns mounted about that city.

In the entire region between the Lys and the sea, French artillery has been uniformly successful and has silenced several of the main German batteries.

PROVES WORTH SINGLE CIRCUIT

Statistical Report of Clerk for 1914
Reveals Rush County Can Support
Separate Court.

IS SENT TO STATE OFFICER

More Civil Suits Filed Than in 1913
But Same Number Are Disposed
of—Divorces and Marriages.

The past year more than demonstrated that Rush county can support a separate circuit court. This is shown in the annual report of Arie M. Taylor clerk of the court, to the bureau of statistics. The report has just been sent to Thomas W. Brodley, chief of the bureau. When the Rush circuit court was first established there was some doubt as to whether there would be enough business here to warrant a separate court.

According to the report, there were 260 civil suits filed during the year. This number is twenty-five greater than in 1913. Of the 266 suits filed 235 were disposed of during the year. The same number was disposed of last year as in 1913. During the year ten suits were sent out of the county on changes of venue. In 1913 a total of twenty suits were sent from the county.

Nineteen suits were received in the local court from other counties on venues. This is two less than in 1913. There were twelve cases in juvenile court in the year 1914 and twenty-three in 1913. The court issued ninety-three letters of administration in 1914. This is greater by thirty-seven than the year before. Thirty-four guardianships were issued in 1914, which is nineteen more than the year 1913.

The report shows that Sheriff Cavitt held seven sales during the year. The year before this he only held 3 sales. Ten decrees of foreclosure were entered by the court. This is five more than were entered in 1913. Twelve persons were adjudged of unsound mind during the year 1914. This number is exactly the same as in 1913.

One of the surprising features of the report is the marriage and divorce record. The divorces in the county are only about twelve percent of the marriages. A total of 203 marriage licenses were issued and twenty-seven divorces were granted. The marriage business greatly exceeded that of 1913, when only 160 licenses were issued. In the divorces, nineteen were granted to the wife and eight to the husband. In 1913 a total of nineteen divorces were granted—ten going to the husband and nine to the wife. The showing of Rush county in the number of divorces is considered remarkable as compared to other counties. In at least two counties in the state the divorces were fifty percent of the marriages.

The foot and mouth disease is given as the reason for the falling off of the number of hunting licenses issued during the year 1914. A total of 242 were issued as compared with 339 for 1913. The epidemic of foot and mouth disease put a stop to the hunting and there was no need for the licenses.

The report shows that during the year just past three persons declared their intentions of becoming citizens of the United States. Two of these were naturalized by Judge Megee. There were no papers taken out in the year previous.

One of the remarkable things in the local court, according to the report, is the small amount of criminal business. There were a total of

HOLDS HE IS IN CONTEMPT

Mrs. M. M. Siler Says Divorced
Husband is Not Obeying Court

Mrs. Myrtle M. Siler has filed contempt proceedings against Thomas A. Siler in the circuit court, alleging that he has failed to comply with an order of the court when she was granted a divorce from him on October 18, 1913. According to the complaint, Siler was ordered by the court to pay her three dollars a week support money following the divorce trial. Mrs. Siler alleges that for the past ten weeks he has failed to pay her a cent and she demands thirty dollars and asks that he be cited to show why he is not in contempt of court.

ONE OF OLDEST CASES DISMISSED

Suit of Jesse Murphy Against John
E. Ryburn, For $5,000, Taken
Off the Docket Today.

DIVORCE SUIT IN JEOPARDY

One of the oldest cases on the docket was dismissed this morning. It was the case of Jesse Murphy against John E. Ryburn, on a contribution, in which $5,000 was asked. The case was filed on February 4, 1911 and never came to trial. The two men were formerly partners in business in Glenwood. The costs were paid.

John Tuttle was ordered by Judge Sparks to deposit $5 with the clerk of the court on or before January 16, or his divorce suit would be dismissed for want of prosecution. Tuttle brought divorce proceedings against Cora Tuttle. Mrs. Tuttle defaulted and he was ordered on June 28, 1913 to deposit $5 for the prosecuting attorney, but so far has never complied with the order. The case has been standing on the docket ever since and will be stricken off if he does not put up the five dollars.

FINDS TIME-TABLE JUST 27 YEARS OLD

E. C. McMahan, Big Four Agent,
Digs up Old Paper Showing
Card Effective Dec. 25, 1887.

IN DAYS OF THE OLD V. G. & R.

While going through some old papers at the Big Four station today, E. C. McMahan, the agent, found an old time-card that was effective on Christmas day, 1887, which was just twenty-seven years ago last Christmas. The time-table does not look much the worse for wear, but the paper, which was pink once upon a time, is beginning to turn yellow around the edges.

In these days the local division of the Big Four was known as the V. G. & R. (Vernon, Greensburg and Rushville). It consisted only of the line between here and Vernon, but connected here with the Ft. W., C. & L., now the L. E. & W., for Muncie and Fort Wayne. At that time the branch of the Big Four had not been extended from here to Benton Harbor, Michigan. There were two trains a day, one in the morning and one in the afternoon, between here and Vernon, but only one between here and Fort Wayne. At that time Newcastle was not on the map, Muncie being the only station mentioned on the time-table announcing trains between here and Fort Wayne.

DIVORCE LAW HELD INVALID

Lafayette Judge Rules Statute
Passed by 1913 Legislature is
Not Constitutional.

60-DAY CLAUSE OVERTHROWN

Questions of Its Validity Never Brought Before the Indiana Supreme Court Yet.

A decision of interest in Rush county has been handed down by Judge Henry H. Vinton, of the superior court in Tippecanoe county holding that a law enacted by the legislature of 1913 which provides that no step can be taken in a divorce suit until sixty days after the case is filed is unconstitutional. Although the question has never been presented in the Rush circuit court it has come up in a number of other counties where the law has been held valid. The Indiana supreme court has never rendered an opinion relative to the constitutionality of the statute.

The law was passed at the last legislature for the purpose of preventing decision from being given in divorce cases a few minutes after the case was filed such as was the practice in many counties. Since the statute has been in force a number of unhappy couples have been able to adjust their differences during the period the case was pending and have later dismissed the proceedings. Another purpose of the law was to prevent either a husband or wife from securing a divorce when the defendant would not appear. By giving the sixty days' time both parties are afforded an opportunity to consider the proposed decree before the family quarrel is aired in public.

The proceeding passed upon by Judge Vinton was that of Grace Webb against Thomas N. Webb, which was filed November 28, 1914. When it was called objections were filed on the ground the case had not been in court 60 days. Arguments were made on the question and Judge Vinton held the law unconstitutional and set the action for hearing January 11.

This is the second time that the law has been held to be unconstitutional by courts in Tippecanoe county for recently Judge Thomas W. Field made a similar finding in what is known as the Frank divorce case.

Previous to the enactment of the law instances were known where suits for divorce would be filed and granted within a few minutes and in some instances one of the parties obtaining the divorce would remarry before leaving the court house. The law was placed upon the statute books to prevent such acts which could not be avoided under the former statute.

Local attorneys are divided in their opinion regarding the constitutionality of the statute. While a few of them declare that the sixty-day clause is not valid the majority believe that it will be upheld if the question is ever taken to the highest court in Indiana.

GOOD FEELING IS WATCHWORD

Members of Rushville Bar Enjoy
John A. Tittsworth's Hospitality
at Banquet Wednesday Night

TOASTS ARE RESPONDED TO

Resolutions of Good Will for Ben L.
Smith, Oldest Member, Who
Could Not Attend, Passed.

Good fellowship prevailed at the banquet given to the members of the Rushville bar by John A. Tittsworth at his home, corner of Ninth and Main streets, last evening. It was the first time in many years that the lawyers of Rushville have been together in a social gathering and the evening was immensely appreciated by the twenty lawyers present.

Their appreciation was expressed at the conclusion of the toast by a vote extended to the host, and his wife, who ably assisted him, for the excellent banquet and the spirit which prompted the affair. Mr. Tittsworth replied appropriately to the occasion, expressing his pleasure to be able to bring the members of the bar together in such a happy gathering.

Resolutions expressing the good will of the members of the bar for Ben L. Smith, the oldest attorney in Rushville, both in point of service and years were adopted by the members of the bar and today were conveyed to Mr. Smith. He has become so feeble that he was unable to be present last night and sent a message expressing his regret at being unable to be present. The committee on resolutions was Samuel L. Trabue, James E. Watson and Frank J. Hall. The motion that the resolutions be adopted was put by John Q. Thomas.

Mr. Trabue presided. He called on John D. Megee, retiring judge of the Rush circuit court, who responded to the toast, "The Past." He touched on not only the past of the bench but of the bar as well. Judge Megee has long been in the service and has seen much history made by the Rushville bar.

Judge Will M. Sparks, who became judge of the circuit court the first of this year, responded to the toast, "The Future." He outlined to some extent his plans for the circuit court, and expressed the hope that the fullest and best fellowship would exist between the bar and the bench.

Donald L. Smith, retiring prosecuting attorney, spoke briefly on the subject, "What I Did." He declared that he was glad the toastmaster did not ask him to tell what he didn't do because he would be there all night and most of the day. He recited some of the disappointing any annoying experiences of the prosecutor's office, some of them very humorous.

Albert Stevens, the new prosecuting attorney, responded to the toast, "What I Expect to Do." He outlined briefly the policies which he expects to follow while in office. He declared that his prospects, if they were as bad as painted by Mr. Smith were not very rosy, to say the least.

John H. Kiplinger's subject was "Trading at Home." He emphasized the point that while the practice of law is not commercial in any sense of the word, the same reasons exist for "trading at home" as exist in the case of the retail merchants.

George Campbell responded to the subject, "Humor at the Bench and the Bar." Mr. Campbell is counted the best story teller of the Rushville bar and he lived up to his reputation last night. He recalled some actual

This also favorably effects hides and skins shipped to the United States. The British government will require a shippers' guarantee of re-shipment of raw manufactured products. State department officials were pleased with the action of the British.

GREELY PERKINS IS FOUND GUILTY

In Second Trial on Charge of "Boot-
legging" he is Found Guilty
by Jury Late Wednesday.

HE DENIES THE ALLEGATIONS

Greeley Perkins was found guilty of the charge of "bootlegging" late Wednesday afternoon in police court by a jury and was fined fifty dollars and costs. Perkins was unable to pay his fine and went back to jail for a total of sixty days. Perkins will be compelled to serve this in addition to the time he has been in jail awaiting a second trial, which makes a total of something like seventy days all told that he will have been the guests of Sheriff Cavitt.

The jury was out only about fifteen minutes in convicting Perkins and three ballots were taken. The attorneys engaged in a lively tilt when Chief Rosenkrance was on the stand. He refused to tell where he was stationed so that he could witness the alleged transaction between Perkins and Alexander West. Geo. Campbell, one of the attorneys for Perkins, demanded that he tell where he was, but Special Judge Young upheld the state in the contention that this was not material. Perkins took the stand and denied everything. He even denied being in the rear of the Roth pool room.

Many were of the opinion that if Perkins had told the truth and admitted where he had bought the liquor he would not have been convicted.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST AIR RAID

English, Evidently Expect Attack by Germans From the Skies, According to Steps Taken.

ZEPPELINS DISCOVERED

(By United Press.)

London, Jan. 7.—Added precautions taken today by the authorities indicates a belief that an important aerial raid by Germany is expected in the near future. Additional men have been sent to the coast guard observation stations. The crews at the stations are on duty in renewed strength and the police have been ordered to enforce the dim-light law to the letter.

The precautions follow the discovery that German Zeppelins have been cruising near the Straits of Dover, escorted by armed German biplanes.

LEGISLATURE FORMALLY OPENS

Charles H. Bedwell Elected Speaker,
Scores "Pernicious Lobby"
in Speech in House.

SENATE TO PRINT ITS BILLS

Governor Ralston, in Message to Joint Session, Calls Mistakes
of 1913 Inexcusable.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 7.—Indiana's 69th general assembly convened at ten o'clock this morning for its sixty-one days' session with the Democrats in control in both branches. The Democratic state organization with National Committeeman Thomas Taggart as its recognized leader was dominant. With the signs of the times indicating Indiana as the battleground for the coming presidential campaign, this session was attended with exceptional significance. This was heightened by the fact that President Wilson will come practically at the opening of the session to deliver what is expected to be the keynote of the campaign.

Legislators who approached the state house today to attend the opening session lifted their eyes to the gold-leafed dome and saw with amazement that the stars and stripes floated from the flagstaff upside down.

When the assembly convened it prepared to follow the organization program laid out for it by the Democratic caucus.

Charles H. Bedwell of Sullivan was elected speaker of the house. He made a speech in which he scored the "pernicious lobby," condemned excessive legislation and advocated efficiency and economy in employing house employees. He said legislation coming from the Republican side should be supported if it was good.

One of the first acts of the senate today was to order that all bills should be printed when introduced thus doing away with all graft in connection with so-called "bill factory" which stole copies of bills.

After Governor Ralston's message was heard the house and senate adjourned until tomorrow at ten. Both houses probably will attend President Wilson's address in a body.

Indiana's problems, ranging from flood prevention and extravagance to taxation and labor-capital disputes, were thoughtfully and seriously discussed this afternoon by Governor Samuel M. Ralston, who appeared in person and read his message to Indiana's 150 lawmakers gathered in the sixty-ninth session of the general assembly. Tho

The January White Sales

January white sales have become a merchandising institution.

This year, however, they have more than their usual attractiveness because of the low price of cotton.

Merchants and manufacturers, with their country's prosperity at heart, are making unusual efforts to encourage the sale of cotton goods.

Prices are favorable and the success of these sales will have their impetus in the coming business revival.

The advertising columns of The Daily Republican are an excellent guide to the best stores.

Amusements

The Gem will show a two reel Rex drama "The Vagabond" for the first picture tonight. Herbert Rawlinson, William Worthington and Beatrice Van are featured. Rawlinson plays a double role and the story is interesting and dramatic. The other is a comedy "Partners in Crime." Billie Ritchie is featured and it is said to be equally as funny as the picture "Love and Surgery" shown here a short time ago. Tomorrow night the two reel feature "The Turn in the Tide" will be shown.

The Mystic offers a two reel historical drama "The Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" for the first picture tonight. It is an Edison drama and is said to be a beautiful picture taken from this famous historical event. The scenes are laid in the exact places of the Revolutionary days and the picture is a great patriotic subject. The other picture is a Vitagraph comedy "Henry Jones' Courtship." Sidney Drew is featured.

The Princess will show a two reel Vitagraph feature "The Butterfly" for the first picture tonight. Helen Gardner is featured and it is said to be a fine comedy-drama "The Wife's Stratagem." Irene Hawley is featured. On Friday, matinee and night the four reel feature "One Wonderful Night" will be shown. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are featured. The picture is taken from the prize story appearing in the Ladies World magazine and is said to be a wonderful production.

Visitors Will be Here Tonight From

Knights town.

ROAST PIG WILL BE SERVED

A big time is anticipated at the annual inspection of Ivy company No. 35, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, tonight. In connection with the inspection the installation of officers will take place and there will be a pig roast. The young porker, roasted fit for a king, will be set out on the table promptly at six-thirty o'clock and visiting Knights and local members of the Rank will be invited to go to the task of annihilating the pig, which was donated by Knight Will Morgan.

Members of the companies at Connersville, Newcastle and Knights town have been invited to attend. Word was received today that fifteen or twenty, practically the whole active company, was coming down from Newcastle in automobiles and that there would be ten from Connersville. Two automobile loads are expected from Knights town. Colonel Phelps of Newcastle will do the inspecting.

experiences and some things he had observed which kept the lawyers in an uproar of laughter all the time.

James E. Watson's toast was on the topic, "The Jury." Mr. Watson dwelt on the practices of a lawyer before a jury and told something of the methods of some of the great jury lawyers of the country whom he had observed.

At the close the attorneys enjoyed some fine music rendered by members of the Rushville bar. B. F. Miller sang several old and familiar airs, among them being "When Polly and I Were Sweethearts Twenty Years Ago," and "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Mr. Watson sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and he and Mr. Miller sang a duet, "Larboard." Judge Sparks was the accompanist.

A course turkey dinner was served the menu including all of the things that go with a turkey dinner.

Remarkable Growth.

The substantial growth of the American Red Cross organization during the past year is described in an article in the January number of the American Red Cross Magazine. During 1914 there was an increase of 47 Red Cross chapters in the United States and an increase of Red Cross members of all classes of approximately 3,000.

The American Red Cross thus far has sent to the distressed countries of Europe 192 skilled surgeons and enrolled Red Cross trained nurses and vast quantities of medical and surgical supplies and shiploads of warm clothing and other useful donations for the destitute women and children and other non-combatants. It has also sent numerous large contributions of money.

The American official relief organization has been able to carry on this gigantic work as a result only of years of steady planning and systematizing.

"Our American Red Cross has demonstrated its preparedness to deal with war conditions," says an editorial in the same number of the magazine. "His organization that provided trained, eye, skilled, personnel and supplies ran smoothly and promptly."

This same editorial says elsewhere:

"By means of its Medical Bureau and its Nursing Service it (the American Red Cross) was able to supply immediately a corps of competent surgeons and trained nurses. No time was lost in having to consider how they should be obtained or where they should be obtained. No study was required as to uniforms and equipment. These were details all arranged long ago. Salaries to be paid and standards required were all to be found in the regulations of the Red Cross service."

A new item recently printed in the New York Times reveals the absurdity of claims of the proponents of the Democratic tariff law that its reductions in schedules will not injure the interests of the farmer eventually and will reduce the cost of living. The Times mentions, just as a small matter in reciting the story of a wager made that the steamship Vasari, sailing from Buenos Aires, would never reach port at New York, that the Vasari brought to the United States 36,528 quarters of beef, which is the biggest consignment of frozen beef that ever reached the New York port in one vessel. Incidentally, it was also stated that the Vasari carried 5,842 carcasses of Argentine sheep in her refrigerator. This, we presume, will not tend to do any damage to the American farmer.

The home newspaper ought always to be singing the praises of its home instead of attributing all efforts to better the town to mean, selfish reasons; but let's make it a chorus instead of a solo.

Isn't it strange how some men will build a house for a new dog the first thing, but when they get married never think any farther ahead than a place to rent?

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and thick with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

What the Solons Are Doing; Legislative Facts---By Expert

Prepared for the United Press by John A. Lapp, director of the Bureau of Legislative Information.

(Mr. Lapp will answer questions relating to the work of the Legislature, including legislative organization and methods, pending bills and enacted laws. Questions on the merits of men or measures will not be answered. To avoid delay address all questions direct to the United Press, 36 1/2 West Washington St., Indianapolis. Questions may be sent to the Daily Republican if preferred.)

M. A. Muncie, writes—"It is true that the public cannot get copies of bills after they are introduced and before the committee hearings? Is it true that 'bill factories' exist and that heads of these factories get real money for copies of bills that the public should receive from the state free?"

Reply—In past legislatures bills have not been printed until reported favorably by a committee. The copy introduced is given to the chairman of the committee to which it is referred. Sometimes a duplicate was filed with the clerk but the public has had no easy means of access to these copies.

M. A. Writes—"The constitution says bills should be given three

readings before each house. Is this done? Is anything lost in case this isn't done?"

Reply—Bills are required to be read three times in each house. In practice no attempt is made actually to read them. If all bills were actually read three times, all of the time would be taken up by the reading. There is nothing lost by this procedure because members depend upon the printed bill instead of the reading by the clerk for their knowledge of it. The provision for three readings accomplishes the purpose of having each bill brought up on three separate days.

Citizen writes—"Will there be a big rush of bills introduced the first day?"

Reply—There are usually no bills introduced the first day. The day is devoted to organization and the message of the Governor. The first active days of legislation will be the first of the following week.

JOHN A. LAPP.

Governor urged economy and the installation of business methods. By the assembly, demanded that the officials of the two houses do their duty to prevent recurrence of bill-juggling, praised various achievements of the preceding legislature and outlined legislation which he desires of the 1915 legislature.

Doubtless with the recent investigation of the Marion county grand jury and its indictment of members and employees of the legislature in mind, Governor Ralston handled without gloves the matter of employees for the legislature. The General Assembly has nothing of the functions of an employment bureau," he said "beyond its duty to secure the needful, and only the needful, help to enable its members to render the service for which they have been chosen." He called on the assembly to ascertain the number of employees needed before appropriation for them was made and he recommended that the appropriation not exceed $15,000. He suggested further that each house keep a payroll of its employees, showing the days of labor performed and the amount due each employee.

The Governor was emphatic in requesting that everything possible be done to prevent recurrence of the bill-juggling that occurred during the 1913 legislature when Lak county bills became laws with the Governor's signature without having been passed by both branches.

"I recommend that the secretary of the senate and the clerk of the house be required whenever a bill is sent to the Governor for his approval, to indicate to him in writing over their signatures, that the same has passed their respective houses, and that the clerk enrolling the same likewise indicate to the Governor in writing that he enrolled said bill."

Speaking of the mistakes of the last assembly he said they were "to characterize them in no severer terms, absolutely inexcusable." He said he recognized that it is impossible for the president of the senate and the speaker of the house carefully to scrutinize all bills they have to sign, or to keep in their minds the record and history of every bill."

With regard to economy in supplies for the assembly he recommended that all printing and supplies be purchased through the bureau of public printing and that the law governing this bureau should be amended so that the clerk of the bureau should submit to the bureau thirty days prior to the session an estimate of the printing and supplies necessary for the coming assembly. The past assembly has been severely criticised for alleged extravagance in supplies.

Regarding "the third house" as lobbyists have been called, the Governor said he believed some practical measure should be passed by this assembly that will "redeem the business of lobbying from the reproach that now attaches thereto and put its practice on a higher plane of legitimacy and real service." He said all lobbyists-for-hire should be forced to register with the secretary of state, and set forth their character of their employment. He said they should not as lobbyists be allowed to occupy or share the seats of members. He added that reporters for newspapers should not be allowed to lobby for measures on the floor under the guise that they were doing legitimate newspaper work.

Governor Ralston dwelt extensively with the state's finances. He pronounced the state in a healthy financial condition, saying that no state in the union was in better condition. He mentioned the appropriations of the last legislature for the education! institutions saying he had hoped that Indiana and Purdue universities would have been enabled by these generous appropriations to do the work now done by the state geologists, state statistician, state board of forestry and state entomologist, so as to save the state the money required for these departments. "I have found that these universities do not care to undertake the work in the absence of a specific appropriation to carry it on, and I am not willing to recommend that you make the appropriation," he said.

He recommended that the statutes be so amended that the state tax board might give direct all notice necessary to effect the equalization of assessments, saying that it must now act through the county auditor, and "county auditors do not always perform these duties." The state board should also be given power to equalize the valuation of property as between various townships of a county. County boards of review sometimes fail to do this, he said. "It is a notorious fact that county assessors have been known to consent to the listing of property for taxation at a gross undervaluation," he said. He said the state board should be given power to remove a county assessor for cause.

The Governor said he believed that "neither capital nor labor desires legislation" on the subject of conciliation and arbitration. "They both seem to flatter themselves that they can get the better of each in a lock-out or strike by winning public sympathy," he said. He asked the assembly to enact a law creating a board of conciliation and arbitration.

FED AVERAGES UPSET THE DOPE

Batters in Third Circuit Who Hit
Good in Big League Slumped to Almost Nothing.

OPPOSITE WAS ALSO TRUE

Figures Don't Lie But They Present
Some Interesting Dope—Boxers
Want Too Much.

BY HAL SHERIDAN.
(Written for United Press.)

New York, Jan. 7.—The grand old dope box gets another shaking up. A careful perusal of the Federal League batting averages for the season of 1914, recently made public by the genial Mr. Gilmore, will shake one's faith in that old adage that
"figures don't lie." They must not
lie but they certainly mystify when
one gazes over the marks set up by
some of the batsmen in the third
loop last year.

Athletes who clubbed out three
hundred and better averages in the National and American league
slumped down in the two fifty class
in the Fed league. And on the other hand some who couldn't even pile up
two hundred mark in the Johnson
and Tener circuit slugged for three
hundred and more in the third
league. That's where the dope box
gets a shaking up.

The case of Josephus Tinker is
one of the glaring kind. Along with his woes as manager of the Cincinnati Reds in 1913 Joe managed to
eke out a puny average of .317
against National League pitching.
Well, Joe himself and several others
thought what he would do to the
twirlers in the Federal league would
be a shame. It was but not the kind of shame that was predicted. Tinker managed to amass an average of
just .259 in the Gilmore circuit—a
fall of 58 points from his work in
the National League.

Danny Murphy, once a star in the Athletic outfield, was a little more
consistent. He walloped the leather
for .322 with the Athletics in 1913.
Last year with the Brookfeds he
clubbed out a mark of .311. Art
Criggs, in the International league in 1913, pounded .292. Last season
with the Feds he dropped to .282.
George Stovall, in his last year in
the American league, had a mark of
.287. As the leader of the Kansas
City Fed tribe in 1914 he could pile
up an average of but .270.

Those named are some of the ones
who went down the ladder. There
are on the other hand some who
went up even farther than the others
descended. Of these Hal Chase stands out the most prominent. In 1913 in Ban Johnson's loop, the first
sacker who once was the pride of Gotham slammed the ball for an average of .267. Last season, with the Buffalo Feds he returned to his
form of former days with the Yankees by chalking up an average of
.354.

Steve Yerks was another who
found the brand of pitching on the Federal league to his liking. Last season with the Pittsburgh Feds he
slammed the ball for an average of
.233. His mark in the American league in 1913 was .267, giving him
a gain of sixty-six points.

Frank LaPorte, formerly of the
St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators, batted .250 in the American league, with Indianapolis,
the Fed league pennant winners last
season, he was good for a mark of
.311.

Art Wilson, when he was with the Giants in 1913, couldn't even top
the two hundred mark, his average
being .190. With Tinker's Chifed
crew last season he chalked up .287,
a gain of nearly one hundred points.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent, lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

CHAPTER XLVII.

The Last Warning.

In the chill, violet-shadowed dusk of that clear evening, a chap-fallen motor car crept sluggishly into the little mountain town of Mesquite at the heels of two mutinous mules, driven by a chauffeur who steered with one hand while the other flourished a crackling whip-lash over the backs of its sole motive power.

Its one passenger, a cripple as helpless as the car itself, huddled in a corner of the rear seat, saluted Mesquite with a snarl. Though he was in sore need of such rude comforts as the town stood prepared to afford him, his demeanor toward it was that of one who suffers an indignity rather than begs accommodation.

And now, as the car crawled to a pause before the Mountain house—Mesquite's one caravanserai—and Mesquite itself, to the last flea-bitten hound, gathered round to view this wonder, Mr. Trine's indignation and chagrin distilled words of poisonous import.

Far from resenting this, Mesquite, pipe-in mouth, hands in pockets, admired and applauded, and rather resented the change that befell when two other strangers (whose earlier appearance in town had helped make that one day memorable beyond all others in Mesquite's history) charged out of the Mountain house and interrupted the elder devil with cries of greeting and jubilation.

The leader of these answered to the name of Marrophat; his companion was a person named Jimmy. Mesquite acquired this information through paying close attention to the substance of their communications with the cripple. More than this, however, it learned little. Something seemed to have been accomplished by the two, something that was highly gratifying to Seneca Trine: for he was chuckling almost mirthfully when lifted from the car and carried into the hotel.

What passed between the trio after they disappeared behind that bed-chamber door Mesquite could by no means guess. But that a celebration of some sort was in progress was evidenced by the frequency with which Marrophat and Jimmy called on the bar for more liquid refreshment.

And toward midnight one belated Mesquite paused in the street outside the Mountain house for one last curious stare at the lighted windows of Mr. Trine's quarters.

He saw, clearly silhouetted against the glowing oblong of the window, the Mephistophelean profile of Seneca Trine, distorted with a grimace of the cruellest joy that ever heart of man conceived. He saw Marrophat approach his master with a drunken swagger and a speech which, though indistinguishable to the unseen auditor, unquestionably afforded both of the other men ample excuse for ecstatic glee. Toward its conclusion Mr. Marrophat apparently capped the peak of jubilation by fumbling in his coat pocket and bringing forth something which strongly resembled a single playing card.

Now when he had contrived to master his mirth, the cripple made a gesture which eloquently abolished this card, a gesture which said quite plainly: "All that is finished. The thing has served its purpose! To hell with it!"

Whereupon, with a smart jerk of his wrist, Mr. Marrophat sent the card spinning and sailing out through the open window to lose itself in the night.

The watcher didn't see it fall, and though he spent an unconscionable time searching for it in the deep dust

It Was a Trey of Hearts.

of the roadway, he went his way in the end with curiosity unsated: Fate had reserved that card for a higher purpose.

Undisturbed, it lay where it had fallen, face upward, not a dozen feet from the front door of the Mountain house, until another day dawned on Mesquite.

Then, in the clear light of that dawn, four more strangers straggled into town—two weary and haggard men, two footsore and bedraggled women.

One of these last was dressed in a suit of man's clothing, much the worse for wear.

At sight of the Mountain house the party betrayed slight symptoms of a more cheerful spirit: rejoicing in its promise of food and drinks and beds without wherein to sleep, the four quickened their steps.

But of a sudden one of the women—she who wore the garments of her sex—paused, uttered a low cry, a thrill with terror, and clutching the arm of the man nearest her, pointed down to the card that stared up from the dust at her feet.

It was a Trey of hearts.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Full Flight.

"Oh, what can it mean?" Rose whispered brokenly, clinging to her lover's arm. "Surely you don't think . . . Surely, it must be accidental . . . Surely it can't mean—"

"I'm afraid it does," Alan Law responded gravely, eyeing the front of the Mountain house. "Our luck holds consistently—that's all. It wouldn't be us if we didn't pick out the one place where Marrophat and Jimmy chose to stop over night. Fortunately, it's early; I doubt they're up. With half a show we ought to be able to find some way of putting a good distance between us and this town before they waken. Tom!"

But Mr. Barcus was already at his elbow, in thorough sympathy with Alan's interpretation of the significance to be attached to the card that trembled in Rose's hand.

"Sharp's the word!" he agreed. "And there's a motor car over there, in front of the blacksmith's. Probably we can hire her—"

"Trine's car!" Alan ejaculated, swinging round and recognizing the automobile at a glance. "Then he's here, as well!"

"Looks like it," Barcus admitted. "But so much the better. We'll just naturally take the darn' thing off his hands, and I'll bet a dollar there isn't another car within a radius of fifty miles! We'll be well out of these giddy mountains long before he finds anything to chase us with."

But his confidence was demonstrated to be premature by the discovery, which rewarded the first cursory examination, that the car was very thoroughly out of commission.

Two minutes later, however, their earnest inquiries elicited the fact that, although Barcus was justified in his surmise that the neighboring country was poverty-stricken in respect of motor cars, Mesquite itself boasted two motorcycles whose owners were not indifferent to a chance to sell them second-hand at a considerable advance on the retail list price of the machines, when new.

And thus it was that, within ten minutes from Rose's discovery of that chance-fung warning in the dust, the party was again in rapid motion.

His beauty sleep disturbed by the departure of the machine bearing Barcus and Judith, Seneca Trine roused on an elbow and looked out of the window just in time to see the second motorcycle gathering momentum, Alan steering, Rose in the seat behind.

Sixty seconds later a flaunting banner of dust was all that remained to remind Mesquite that romance had passed that way—that, and a series of passionate screams emanating from the bedchamber of Seneca Trine, where the cripple lay possessed by seven devils of insensate rage.

His screams brought attendance; but it was a matter of many precious minutes before his demands could be met and Marrophat and Jimmy roused from their capricious slumbers in adjoining chambers; and half an hour elapsed before the chauffeur, roused from his own well-earned rest, succeeded in convincing the pair that pursuit with the motor car was out of the question.

But the devil takes care of his own: within another half hour what seemed to be sheer, bull-headed, dumb luck brought a casual automobile to Mesquite—a two-seated, high-power racing machine of the latest and speediest pattern, driven by two irresponsible wayfarers who proved only too susceptible to Marrophat's offer of double the cost of the car—f. o. b. Detroit—for its immediate surrender.

The two piled out promptly enough; Marrophat and Jimmy jumped in; Trine from his bedroom window sped them on their murderous mission with a blast of blasphemy.

It must have been an hour later when Alan, checking his motorcycle as it surmounted the summit of a long upgrade, looked back and discovered, several miles distant on the far-flung windings of the mountain road, a small crimson shape that ran like a mad thing tirelessly pursued by a cloud of tawny dust like a golden ghost.

A motor car, beyond all question, and one of uncommon road-devouring quality; it might or might not contain Marrophat and Jimmy, once more in pursuit. Whether or not, bitter experience had long since educated

Alan in the gentle art of taking no chances.

Though it was his life that they sought so pertinaciously, no later than yesterday (and then by no means for the first time), they had proved that if Rose were with Alan they would include her ruthlessly in whatever scheme they might contemplate for his personal extermination.

Nor would Tom Barcus be exempt, if they were caught in company—though Judith might be, in view of Marrophat's infatuation for the girl. These two were far ahead, out of sight, indeed; and must somehow be overtaken and warned—no easy matter, since the machine which bore them was, if anything, faster than Alan's, just as the racing automobile was faster than either.

Alan kept his gaze steadfast to the road before them, daring not once to look up and round or back.

So sinuous and meandering was its course, indeed, that Alan seldom could see a hundred yards of it ahead, but must pelt on in panic flight, hoping for the best—that Judith and Barcus would soon show up in front, that something might happen to hinder the pursuit—never knowing whether the latter lost or gained.

And thus catastrophe befell. Round the swelling bosom of a wooded mountainside the motorcycle swept like a hunted hare, and without the least warning came upon Barcus and Judith, dismounted, Barcus bending over his cycle and tinkering with its motor.

For one horriplating instant collision seemed unavoidable. Barcus and Judith and the motorcycle occupied most of the width of the road; there was little room between them and the declivity, less between them and the forest. To try to pass them on the latter side would be only to dash his brains out against the trees; while to make the attempt on the outside would be to risk leaving the road altogether and dashing off into space.

And it was impossible to stop the cycle—so brief was all his warning. In desperation Alan chose the outside of the road; and for the space of a single heartbeat thought that he might possibly make it, but with the next realized that he would not—seeing the front wheel swing off over the lip of the slope.

At this he acted sharply and upon sheer instinct. As the cycle left the road altogether he risked a broken knee by releasing his grasp of the handlebars and straightening out his leg and driving it down forcibly against the roadbed. The effect of this was to lift him bodily from the saddle: the machine shot from beneath him like some strange projectile hurled from the bore of a great gun; and Rose crashed against him in the same fraction of a second.

Headlong they plunged as one down the hillside, struck its shelving surface a good twenty feet from the brink of the road, and flying apart tumbled their separate ways down the remainder of the drop and into the friendly shelter of the underbrush.

Something nearly miraculous saved them whole. Beyond a few scratches and bruises and a severe shaking up, they escaped unharmed. And they were picking themselves up and regaining their breath and re-collecting their scattered wits when, with impetus no less terrific than their own had been, the pursuing motor car swung round the bend and hurled itself directly at the two who remained upon the road above.

CHAPTER XLIX.

Sacrifice.

But Tom Barcus hadn't failed to profit by the warning implicit in Alan's accident.

Alan, he told himself shrewdly, would never have run his cycle at so foolhardy a pace without good reason; and under the circumstances good reason was synonymous solely with pursuit.

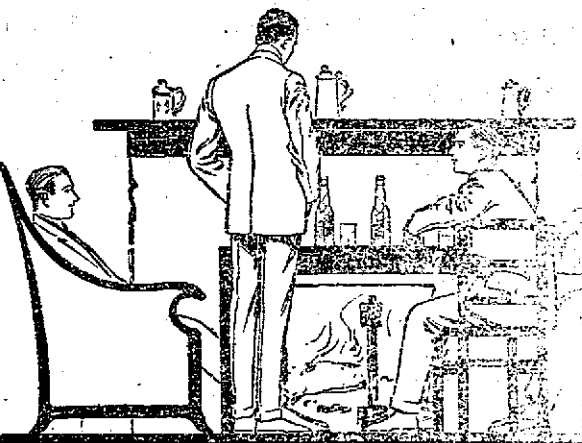

He was therefore on the alert, quick to see the racing automobile when it came hurtling round the bend, and in the very nick of time grasped Judith's arm and swung her bodily with him back out of harm's way, amid the trees that bordered the inside of the road.

Of necessity his motorcycle suffered. Abandoned in the middle of the road, it was struck by the buffers of the motor car and flung aside as if it had been nothing more ponderable than a truss of straw—landing half-way down the embankment, a hopeless tangle of shattered tubing and twisted wire.

At first blush the circumstance seemed surprising, that the car did not stop. But then Barcus reminded himself that Marrophat and Jimmy could not possibly have witnessed the accident involving Alan and Rose, who, together with the wreck of their machine, remained well-cloaked by the underbrush at the bottom of the canyon. In all probability, then, the assassins had assumed that Alan had hurried on; and since their own first business was concerned exclusively with them, they had done likewise, reasoning that they could return and deal with his unfortunate friend at their convenience after overhauling their quarry, whose life they most coveted.

Beer the Ideal Winter Drink

The increasing consumption of beer in winter is disproving the popular notion that it is peculiarly a summer drink.

Gradually the sparkling beverage is displacing stimulant in the clubs and homes where men and women gather for a social hour.

Beer is the ideal winter drink because it supplies the body with the wholesome food which Nature demands to combat the rigors of the weather.

Drink beer in the winter time. It means sociability, but not intemperance, and health instead of dissipation.

WOMEN TO TAKE HAND IN FIGHT

Allied With Legislative Council of Indiana to Oppose Twenty-Two Stotensberg Amendments.

RESOLUTIONS SENT OUT

Doubt as to Whether They Will be Successful—Will Not Lobby For Bills in Legislature.

(By United Press.) Indianapolis, Jan. 7.—Every woman allied with the Legislative Council of Indiana Women—and there are said to be between forty and fifty thousand of them—is pledged to help defeat the Stotensberg amendments. These twenty-two amendments have passed the legislature once and will come up again for final action during the session beginning today. Another passage and they become amendments to the constitution.

There is some doubt whether the women will be able to swing their organization with force commensurate with the numbers—forty or fifty thousand—but that the force will be considerable nevertheless is granted. The Woman's Franchise League of Indiana, a member of the Legislative Council, started the ball rolling by adopting the following resolutions:

1st. That the League shall seek to defeat in to the twenty-two amendments by Mr. Stotensberg and now pending in the legislature.

2d. That we petition the legislature to call a Constitutional Convention in the Spring of 1915, or failing in that, to put the question again before the people.

These resolutions have been sent broadcast through the state with a letter of chairman of the various leagues asking them to hold a meeting of the leagues at once and get the question "well before the women." Enclosed is a printed copy of an abstract of the amendments with notes as to their "undesirability." The local papers will be asked to aid the women.

Women who wish the vote are opposed to these amendments because they do not consider equal franchise.

In this city today delegates to the Legislative Council met and discussed legislation that they will favor. It was determined not to give out the names of the steering committee or information committee members. It was announced that there would be no women "lobbyists" as that term is used. It was considered probable, however, that a committee of attractive young women, known under a less objectionable name, might help the legislators to while away the idle hours in the lobbies.

B. & O. PLACES BIG ORDER FOR CARS

System of Which C. H. D. is a Part Orders New Equipment Involving $2,000,000 Expenditure.

PRICES ASKED ON STEEL RAILS

New equipment involving an expenditure of between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 was ordered today for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, according to a statement by J. H. Baumgartner, of Baltimore, Md., publicity man for the company. The announcement states that contracts have been made for the purchase of two thousand freight cars, one thousand box cars and one thousand steel hopper cars and options have been taken on an additional one thousand box cars and that many hopper cars.

Prices have also been asked on 25,000 tons of steel rails. The order for the hopper cars was placed with the Cambria Steel company of Johnstown, Pa., and the box cars will be made by the Mt. Vernon Car Manufacturing company, of Mt. Vernon, Ill. The orders are for immediate delivery.

SHEPARD TO GO TO PRISON

Man Who Was Accused of Attacking Mother to Finish Out Term.

Connersville, Ind., Jan. 7.—William Shepard, 33 years old, will be returned to the State Prison to serve the remainder of a fourteen-year sentence, which will not expire until 1921. Shepard is believed to have been responsible for the injuries sustained by his mother, Mrs. Nancy Shepard, on Christmas eve, which resulted in her death. The aged woman's hip was fractured, and she told officers that her son struck her while drunk. Later she denied the statement and today the police refused to sign an affidavit charging the son with manslaughter. Prosecutor F. M. Edwards thought the evidence would not warrant Shepard's conviction.

TROUBLE IS OVER BONDS THAT ARE DUE

A. R. Herkless Attempting to Collect From City Paper Due on a 1906 Improvement

BOND HOLDERS LOOK TO HIM

The trouble between the city and A. R. Herkless is not over the recently completed sidewalk improvements but over bonds due on the Oliver street improvement issued back in 1906. Mr. Herkless claims that the city owes him money on bond coupons accumulated for the past eighteen months and alleges that the money is in the fund. He has been held off by the city while the fund is being checked up to see if all the amounts have been paid in.

The contractor for city improvements is given bonds covering the amounts outstanding and as the holders of the bonds look to Mr. Herkless for the bonds to be made good he is anxious for a settlement on the outstanding Oliver street coupons. It is expected that the difficulty between the city and Mr. Herkless will be settled in a few days.

Trial will Convince Anyone—The Great Remedy Never Disappears

A few years ago I was troubled with a complication of kidney and stomach ailments and although I tried two or three different doctors, I was unable to obtain a cure. Having heard a great deal about Swamp-Root, I decided to give it a trial and purchased a one-dollar bottle of Mr. Alexander, the druggist. From the beginning I could notice a change for the better and after taking eight bottles of your medicine, I felt entirely cured and have not had any trouble since.

Had I began using Swamp-Root sooner, I would have been a few hundred dollars to the good and saved myself a lot of suffering. You may use my testimonial any time you wish. Yours very truly,

CHARLES E. HARRIS,

460 Sixth St., Marion, Iowa. I certify that Charles E. Harris signed the above testimonial in my presence, being first duly sworn to the truth thereof, this the 12th day of July, 1909.

JESSE DRAKE BUYS VIGAN'S STORE

Takes Possession of Variety Business Today and Will Establish it in Old Portola Room.

IN 99 CENT STORE 12 YEARS

Jesse R. Drake, who has been employed at the Ninety-nine cent store for twelve years, has bought the Vigan variety store in West Second street and took possession today. Mr. Drake has leased the room next door east, which was occupied by the Portola theater, and will move the stock into it the first of February. The new store will be known as "The Welcome Variety Store." The room it will occupy is being remodeled and will have a modern front. Mr. Drake expects to make the store up-to-date in all of its appointments.

Mr. Drake obtained a position in the Ninety-Nine Cent store in the fall of 1902 at $2.50 a week where he has worked faithfully to learn the variety business and hopefully looked forward to the day when he could have a business of his own. Mr. Drake is well known throughout the county and his friends will undoubtedly be glad to hear of his new venture and will wish him success.

Ben Vigan, it is announced, who has been in business here a number of years has not decided what he will do.

OHIO WOMAN'S DROPSY CURED!

Tells Everybody How This Happy Result as Produced.

Dear Editor:—For a long time I had been suffering from dropsy. I had puffy pouches under my eyes. My feet swelled and my abdomen was swollen to twice their natural size and a finger pressure on the swelling left a white dent which remained for some time. This water often pressed against my heart and caused a smothering sensation. I had severe headaches, continuous backache, dizzy sensations and rheumatic pains throughout my entire body. The kidneys were off in their action and this poison backed up in my system. In spite of my doctoring and the taking of many remedies I obtained no relief.

Finally I was given a few Lloyd's kidney and rheumatism tablets, the new scientific prescription. These did me such good that I at once got a larger size and in a week's time all the swelling, backache, and other symptoms left me like magic. I now feel like a new woman. Lloyd's Tablets deserve all the credit for curing me of the trouble and ridding me of the terrible agony. I advise all to be sure and get from their druggists today, Lloyd's, the kind that cured me and cleanse their kidneys before too late.

TELEPHONE CABLE SHOT

Attention Called to Two Laws Violated When This is Done.

Another example of shooting telephone cable has been called to the attention of George Davis, general manager of the Rushville Co-operative Telephone company. Some one "peppered" a piece of cable in South Pearl street the other night with a shot gun and just "shot it full of holes." This is not the first time telephone cables has been shot through. Mr. Davis does not think it is maliciously done, but that someone just thoughtlessly hits it while shooting at something else. Mr. Davis calls attention to the fact that there is a state law against molesting telephone poles and wires and a city ordinance against shooting inside the city limits.

AGENTS VISITED MANY CHILDREN

Report of State Board of Charities Shows State Cared For 4,629 Children During Year.

FOUND HOME FOR 3, THOUSAND

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 7.—Under the head "Statistics of Dependent Children," the Board of State Charities in its annual report, gives the state information concerning the work of the orphan's home and state agents during the year just past. In addition to visiting children in family homes and in a general way supervising the work of the orphan's home associations, the state agency has found time to place 3,216 children. The agents visited 4,629 children and 95.5 per cent. were found doing well or fairly well. The remaining 208 were found in an unsatisfactory condition and steps were taken to return the children to the agencies responsible for them.

"Finding homes for these 3,216 children involved 5,398 placements and transfers," the report says. The following table shows the results: Subject to visitation, 889; adopted, 112 over age, 338; over age and self supporting, 551; ran away, 184; married, 114; died, 46; with parents, 168; in institutions other than orphan's homes, 47; returned to counties, 767.

The total cost involved was $13,108.45, which included salaries.

thirty-two criminal cases filed during the year and of this number twenty cases were dismissed and a total of thirty-four were disposed of. In 1913 forty cases were filed and eighteen were dismissed. The crimes on which the charges were based were many and varied. Six were convicted for felonies and three of this number were released on probation.

There were five convictions for misdemeanors and two of the five were released on probation. There were three cases for the violation of the liquor laws and two were convicted. There were two cases for assault and battery. One of these was nolleed and the other is still pending. There were a total of 27 cases for misdemeanors and five for felonies. The criminal business slightly exceeded that of 1913.

GERMAN AERIAL RAID DEFEATED

Paris Official Statement Says That Uninterrupted Successes Meet French Efforts

GERMAN BATTERIES STOPPED

(By United Press.)

Paris, Jan. 7.—Uninterrupted successes at every point of contact with the enemy is claimed by the official and unofficial reports received from the front today. A determined aerial raid directed against Dunkirk and the ammunition and supply bases in that vicinity is reported to have been defeated by the accurate fire of the French aero guns mounted about that city.

In the entire region between the Lys and the sea, French artillery has been uniformly successful and has silenced several of the main German batteries.
